

Financial Assistance

At Ardent Counseling, we desire for people to find counseling services with us encouraging, and not a burden in any capacity. Our standard rate is $95 per session, would it be a burden to you or your family we would be able to offer discounted rates for your sessions. Please consider the following when thinking about your financial needs:

1. How many times per month could you consider wanting to have a counseling session? Typically, individuals will see me approximately 2-3 times per month, but this can vary depending on your situation.
2. What is the amount your family can afford per month or per session?

With these two questions to consider, it should help give some clarity to the question of finances. Payment is due at each session - start or end.

Please take some time to consider these questions and contact us with any questions. We will discuss your situation and finalize details of this agreement at your first session.
